

Social–Emotional Learning Support for Every Child, Teacher, and Family

Research shows that, prior to the pandemic, more than 60% of children had experienced at least one traumatic event by the age of 16.

The aftermath of the last two years and the resulting stress on children, teachers, and families have magnified concerns for children who have experienced trauma and elevated the importance of providing all young children with the positive social–emotional skills they need to have success in school and in life.

Introducing the Social–Emotional Learning Impact Solution

This solution combines the power of three research-based tools that were designed to meet the unique social–emotional learning (SEL) needs of early childhood: Al's Pals™, Noni™, and ReadyRosie®. These innovative and easy-to-use solutions will deliver everything children, educators, and families need to facilitate meaningful SEL interactions when they need them the most.
